

Red Angus Society Technical Conference

An initiative of Red Angus Society Victoria and Red Angus Society New South Wales

SATURDAY 21ST AUGUST 8.30 AM
Hicks Beef, Annandayle South, Holbrook, NSW

Tom & Andrew Hicks Principals of Hicks beef - targeting the commercial cattle breeder.

The future of the Red Angus breed rests squarely on the knowledge and skills of the breeders.
We hope this technical conference will get breeders together to improve our skills and learn.

SPEAKERS

Liam Cardile: One of the great people in the industry, with sound cattle knowledge and a professional livestock scanning and assessment business. Liam will demonstrate structural assessment and scanning.

Reon Holmes: One of Australia's leading cattle vets, working with Universities to improve fertility of beef cattle. Reon has an excellent knowledge of the profit drivers of the beef industry.

Tom Bull: Leading sheep breeder who has redefined sheep breeding with Lambpro. An opportunity to learn from someone at the top of his industry, on reading the market and producing what the market demands.

Dinner: Saturday night at Riverina Hotel, Holbrook. Dinner at menu prices.

Registration: $25.00 per head. Conference fees will be refunded if COVID-19 restrictions result in cancellation
To register and arrange fee payment contact Kate Macdonald, National Office red.angus@abri.une.edu.au or 02 6773 3022

Accommodation:

Delegates are responsible for accommodation bookings - local options include:
Holbrook Town Centre Motor Inn 02 6036 2666; Holbrook Skye Motel 02 6036 2333
Jolly Swagman Motel 02 6036 3944 Byer Fountain Motor Inn 02 6036 2077

On the Friday prior to the conference some Victorians delegates are staying at the Siesta Motel, Albury 45 minutes from Hicks Beef. A good motel and a chance to meet up with other breeders. Saturday night may be better to be within walking distance of the Riverina Hotel in Holbrook.

